milks, Sukey, or you'll have a split bag." Do they think they can stuff such a big comb down our craw? No, sir; you might as well try to stuff butter in a wild cat with a hot awl. [Continued laughter.] The thing can't be done.

The public grindstone is a great institution, sir—yes, sir, a great institution. One of the greatest, perhaps, that ever rose, reigned or fell. But, sir, there is too much private cruelty going on. The thing won't pay. Occasionally a big ax is brought to be fixed up, ostensibly for the purpose of hewing down the gnarled trunks of errors and clearing out the brushwood of ignorance and folly that obstruct the public highway of progress. The machine whirrs, the ax is applied. The lookers on are enchanted with the brilliant sparks elicited. The tool is polished, keenly edged; and, while the public stare in gaping expectancy of seeing the road cleared, the implement is slyly taken off to improve the private acres of some "faithful friend of the people." What is the result? The obstructions remain unremoved. The people curse because the car lags—no, it does not. It is at the expense of a broken wheel and a jaded and sore-backed team. I tell you the thing won't pay. The time will come when the nasal promontories of these disinterested grinders will be put to the stone, instead of their hardware. [Applause.] I am mighty afraid the machine is going to stop. The grease is giving out, running fast. It is beginning to crack on its axis. Gentlemen, it is my private opinion, confidentially expressed, that all the gritters, pretty near, worn off. [Applause.]

Mr. Speaker, you must excuse me for my latitudinism and circumlocution. My old blunderbuss scatters amazingly; but if anybody got peppered, it ain't my fault if they are in the way. Sir, these dandified super-spiritual, mahogany-faced gentry—what do they know about the blessings of freedom? About as much, sir, as a toad frog does of high glory. Do you think they can escape me? I'll follow them through pandemonium and high water! [Cheers and laughter.]

These are the ones that have got our liberty-pole off its perpendicularity. 'Tis they who would rend the stars and stripes—that noble flag, the blood of revolutionary fathers enlivened in its red. The purity of the cause for which they died denoted by the white; the blue—the freedom they attained, like the azure air that wraps their native hills and lingers on their lovely plains. [Cheers.] The high bird of liberty sits perched on the topmost branch, but there is secession salt on his glorious tail. I fear he will no more spread his noble pinions to soar beyond the azure regions of the boreal pole. But let not his scornful pull the least feather from his scintillating wing to plume a shaft to pierce his noble breast; or, what is the same, make a pen to sign a secession ordinance. [Applause.] Alas! poor bird, if they drive you from the branches of the hemlock of the north, and the palm-tree of the south, come over to the gum-tree of the west, and we will protect your noble birdship, while water grows and grass runs. [Immense applause.] Mr. Speaker, I subscribe for the present.

By reading this table carefully, the public can post themselves thoroughly upon the arrival and departure of all the mails, and thus avoid much inconvenience to themselves.

H. A. PATTERSON, P. M.

HOMESPUN ORATORY.

A Speech Made by General Riley in the House of Representatives of Missouri, February 8, 1861.

After a long and heated discussion on the referring of a bill amending the charter of the city of Carondelet to a standing committee of the House, Mr. Riley obtained the floor and addressed the House:

MR. SPEAKER—Everybody is pitching into this matter like lead into a willow swamp on a lovely evening in the balmy month of June, when the mellow light of the moon lies with a delicious flood the thin ethereal atmosphere air. [Applause.] Sir, I want to put in a word, or perhaps a word and a half.

There seems to be a disposition to fight. Let us there in any thing to be done, come on with your corn cobs and lightning bugs! [Applause.] In the language of the ancient Roman:

"Come one, come all, this rock shall fly From this firm base, in a pig's eye."

Now, there has been a great deal of bombast here to-day. I call it bombast from "Alpha" to "Omega." [I did understand the meaning of the words though.] Sir, the question to refer is a great and magnificent question. It is the all-absorbing question. Like a sponge, sir—a large, unreasoning sponge, of globe shape, and a small tumbler of water—it sucks up everything. Sir, I stand here with the weapons I have designated to defend the rights of St. Louis county—the rights of any other county—over the county of Cedar itself. [Laughter and applause.] Sir, the debate has assumed a latitudinism. We have had a little black-jack buncombe, a little two bit buncombe, bombast buncombe, bung-bug buncombe, and the devil and his grandmother knows what other kind of buncombe. [Laughter.]

Why, sir, just give some of 'em a little Southern soap and a little Northern water, and quicker than a bound pup can lick a skunk, they will make enough buncombe-brother to wash the golden flock that rains abroad the azure meads of heaven. [Cheers and laughter.] I allude to the starchy ornament.

The speaker—the gentleman is out of order. He must confine himself to the question.

Mr. Riley—Just retain your linen if you please. I'll stick to the text as close as a pitch plank to a pine plank, or a lean pig to a hot jam rock. [Cries of "go on," "you'll do!"]

I want to say to these carboniferous gentlemen, these igneous individuals, these detonating demonstrators, these perignous volcanoes, come on with their combustible! If I don't—well, I'll suck the Gulf of Mexico through a goose quill. [Laughter and applause.] Perhaps you think I am diminutive tuers and sparse in the mundane elevation. You may discover, gentlemen, you are laboring under as great a misapprehension as though you had incinerated your inner vestment. In the language of the noble bard:

"I was born in a tickler."

To be scorned by a cricket."

[Applause.]

Sir, we have lost our proper position. Our proper position is to the zenith and nadir—our heads to the one, our heels to the other, at right angles with the horizon, spanned by that azure arm of the lustrous firmament, bright with the constellations of innumerable constellations, and proud as a speckled studhorse on county court day. [Cheers.]

"But how have the mighty fallen," in the language of the poet laureate. We have assumed a glaucochloous, a glaucochloous position. And what is the answer? Echo answers "buncombe," sir, "buncombe." The people have been fed on buncombe, while a lot of spavined, ring-boned, ham-strung, wind-galled, swine-eyed, poll-booted distempered, polliwogged, pot-bellied politicians have had their noses in the public trough, and there sat today enough left to make a grub for a sick grubworm. [Cheers and laughter.]

Sir, the happy train keeps laughing at the people. They say: "Let down your Imitations.

To protect the public against Imitations and Fraud we have put the word CAPCINE IN EACH GENUINE BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTER.

Do not allow some other plaster to be palmed off under the name of Capcine or Capcine, or by similar names, with the assurance that it is the same thing or as good. Bear in mind that the only object such vendor can have is the fact that they can buy imitations at half the price of the genuine, and they hope by this substitution to gain a small additional profit.

BRIEFLETS.

—Valentines to-morrow.
—A very slight flurry of snow this morning.
—C. S. Crosby is confined to his house by illness.

—Rev. Mr. Sanderson has decided upon a residence on Marshall street in Milwaukee.

—Mr. J. T. Wright has been elected President of the Rock County Sunday School Association.

—Aprons of various sizes, styles and prices, at Cannon's hall, Wednesday evening, February 18th.

—The revival meetings at the First Methodist church have proved both interesting and successful.

—We hope the new directory will be an improvement on the old. A poor one is almost worse than none.

—Mrs. P. M. Pryor and son, of Waupun, arrived in the city yesterday for a two weeks' visit with friends.

—Tom Kean's gymnasium is being well patronized. There is lively work and plenty of fun there every evening.

—Fretz and Evenson are to perform the programmes for the dramatic entertainment at Footville on the 18th inst.

—Tickets for Mr. Sawin's Y. M. C. A. lecture, at Cannon's hall, Monday evening, for sale at Mr. Wheelock's store. Price 10 cents.

—The T. of H., the M. C., the I. O. G. T., and the A. O. U. W., meet to-night. A few more societies would bankrupt the alphabet.

—Arrangements have been made for continuing special meetings at Court Street church all of next week, afternoons and evenings.

—An aimless man is looking for aims on the street today. He has a hand-organ on wheels, employs a boy to grind out the music, and another to pass around the hat.

—Harris & Smith have received another order from Belgium, where their safety lamps are meeting with a big sale. Their foreign business is getting to be large, and their home business continues to grow too.

—Justice Wickham is to-day hearing the evidence in the assault case from the town of Porter. There is a crowd of witnesses and the trial will be rather prolonged, and tedious to all but those immediately interested.

—One of our city papers, which ought to know better, speaks of Miss Peterson as acting assistant postmaster. She has duly taken her oath of office and is not, merely acting, but has been duly installed as Deputy.

—Mr. Terry is now busy at work at his new duties in Green Bay. He writes that his time has been so crowded thus far with business that he hasn't had a square chance to see how he likes the town as a place to live in.

—Young Nash is clearing out the ruins of his refrigerator warehouse, and is going to put it in shape again, though on a small scale, and will have less ice at a time on the second story. He is bound not to give it up: Good grit.

—The wise ones will not be in a hurry to open any drop letters they may receive to-morrow, but will slip out of the sight of the common herd, and in some sly corner examine the contents, for it may be one of those horrible cartoons called a valentine.

—By invitation of Rev. T. P. Sawin, the Bower City Rifles will attend divine service at the Congregational church on Washington's birthday, February 22. All company members are notified to be at the Armory, in full uniform, at 10 o'clock sharp, on the above date.

—Washington's birthday comes this year on Sunday, which will make Monday the legal holiday. The Circuit Court having been adjourned to the 23rd, which will be a legal holiday, the query is whether the court can meet and adjourn on that day, or what can be done about it.

—The Guards decided at their meeting, last night, to attend the morning services at the Congregational church on Washington's birthday. The Guards are certainly doing a missionary as well as a military work, in getting some of the boys to attend church, even if it isn't more than once a year.

—The valentine trade this year does not seem to run so much to the comic and burlesque as last year, but there is more demand for sentimental ones, with gauze and frilled work, naked cupids, joined hands, hearts with arrows through them, and gushing rhymes. This looks encouraging for the parsons.

—Mr. Robbins is about the same. It cannot be said yet that his recovery is by any means assured, for his condition is liable to change at almost any time, and the nature of his injuries is such as to render prediction useless. Still every day strengthens the chances, and all cannot but hope that recovery will at last come.

—There has of late been somewhat of a clamor for the Citizens' Committee to make a report on the result of their investigations. It is understood that the Committee have found that the grain market in this city is being well handled, and that producers can do as well, or better, in making their sales here as at any other point, and that in regard to other business interests that they see no necessity for further investigation or action. If such is the case, the Committee should hasten to report to that effect, as some may naturally infer that the delay is caused by the fact that they find so many things derogative to Janesville that they prefer to keep silence. If there is no cause for complaint, those who have been so nettled by rumors to the contrary, should of all others hasten to kill such rumors, by briefly stating that they are groundless. If this is being made as good a grain market as can be desired it should be so stated, and not let the city rest under any such imputations as have been whispered against it.

—Home Comforts, Moderate rates, at the House, New York.

CRUSHED BY THE WHEELS.

Charles Money Falls Under a Freight Train and is Fatally Mangled.

The news reaches this city that Charles Money met with his death last night in Chicago. His parents live at the corner of School and Lincoln streets, and to them the blow comes with a crushing suddenness, and casts a gloom over a large circle of friends and acquaintances. It appears that Mr. Money attempted to jump upon a passing freight train on the Pan Handle road, about 5 o'clock last evening, and missing his hold, fell beneath the wheels. Both legs were crushed, his right arm broken, and his whole body bruised and mangled. He was picked up in an insensible condition, and taken to his boarding place, where two physicians were called to attend to him, but his injuries were beyond the reach of medical or surgical skill, and in a few hours death came.

The deceased was a single man and was about twenty-six years of age. He was employed at the malleable iron works, corner of Twenty-sixth street and Western avenue.

The news of the accident reached the city last evening, and in response to a telegram bidding the relatives come, as he was still alive, Mrs. Money and one of her sons took the nine o'clock train last evening for Chicago, but soon after they had gone another telegram was received stating that he was dead. Mrs. Money and her son are expected to return with the remains this evening.

Young Money was well known in this city, as he had lived here for years. Work being dull he went to Chicago last December and secured the position which he has since been filling.

THE LAST SAD RITES.

The funeral services of the late Charles H. Haselton were held this afternoon at the family residence on South Jackson street. The occasion was a sadly tender one, and called together a large number of sympathizing and sorrowing friends.

The sad event has touched all, and the feeling of sorrow has found many ways of expression. Those of the telegraphic fraternity, with whom the deceased had come into daily contact, and who held him in such high esteem, were represented by a number of their members from Chicago, who arrived this afternoon, and attended the funeral in a body. Those who were thus present were: W. J. Lloyd, E. S. Patten, W. R. Holligan, John McBride, R. H. Lord, R. W. Ledwith, Harry Barton, B. E. Sunney, and F. M. Chittenden. These with Charles Valentine, Henry Hudson, and Charles Atwood, of this city, served as pall-bearers.

The floral tributes were many, and by their beauty and design bespoke in silent tenderness the esteem in which the departed one was held. One design represented by cut flowers two telegraph poles with the wire, and above these in an arch were the significant words—"No circuit."

This was the tribute of the Milwaukee operators. The operators of the Atlantic & Pacific and Board of Trade offices gave a beautiful tribute in the form of a crown and a harp, while in the center of the harp were the significant figures "30" which to the fraternity is the signal of "The End."

From the operators in the Western Union offices in Chicago and New York were also floral tributes of rare beauty, there being a large pillow of cut flowers, a cross and an anchor. Besides these there was a profusion of cut flowers bouquets, and living green.

The services were conducted by Rev. J. W. Sanderson, assisted by Rev. T. P. Sawin, and appropriate music was rendered by a quartet consisting of Mrs. L. A. Smith, Mrs. C. E. Mosley, Mr. W. Follansbee and Mr. John Wingate. A large number of the friends followed the remains to Oakhill cemetery where they were laid at rest.

The foreman of the New York and New Haven Steamship Co., Mr. G. B. Haverer, sends us the following: "I can hardly find words enough to express my praise of St. Jacobs Oil. For a whole week I suffered with pains in the back, and was not able to go about; the pains were at times almost unbearable. Advised by a friend, I procured a bottle of St. Jacobs Oil from my drugist, Mr. Otto Meyer, used it without delay, and experienced instant relief from my sufferings."

Garret Pritchard, one of the employees of the Northwestern road met with a serious accident at Fort Atkinson yesterday. While trying to draw a coupling pin to disconnect the engine from the train, he found himself falling, and to avoid getting under the wheels which were in motion, he saved himself by tumbling off at one side, and rolling down the embankment. When picked up he was found to be quite seriously injured. Not being able to be brought to his home in this city, his wife has gone to Fort Atkinson to care for him. He seems to be suffering mainly from internal injuries, the extent of which can hardly be determined yet.

—The valentine trade this year does not seem to run so much to the comic and burlesque as last year, but there is more demand for sentimental ones, with gauze and frilled work, naked cupids, joined hands, hearts with arrows through them, and gushing rhymes. This looks encouraging for the parsons.

If such is the case, the Committee should hasten to report to that effect, as some may naturally infer that the delay is caused by the fact that they find so many things derogative to Janesville that they prefer to keep silence. If there is no cause for complaint, those who have been so nettled by rumors to the contrary, should of all others hasten to kill such rumors, by briefly stating that they are groundless. If this is being made as good a grain market as can be desired it should be so stated, and not let the city rest under any such imputations as have been whispered against it.

—The valentine trade this year does not seem to run so much to the comic and burlesque as last year, but there is more demand for sentimental ones, with gauze and frilled work, naked cupids, joined hands, hearts with arrows through them, and gushing rhymes. This looks encouraging for the parsons.

—Mr. Robbins is about the same. It cannot be said yet that his recovery is by any means assured, for his condition is liable to change at almost any time, and the nature of his injuries is such as to render prediction useless. Still every day strengthens the chances, and all cannot but hope that recovery will at last come.

—There has of late been somewhat of a clamor for the Citizens' Committee to make a report on the result of their investigations. It is understood that the Committee have found that the grain market in this city is being well handled, and that producers can do as well, or better, in making their sales here as at any other point, and that in regard to other business interests that they see no necessity for further investigation or action. CITY NOTICES.

STAFFORD, ONT., Aug. 1, 1874.

Having become almost entirely cured of extreme debility through the use of Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, I feel it but just to put the fact on record. My case had resisted all other medicines, but succumbed to three bottles of Fellows' Hypophosphites.

The Circassian Women are considered to be the most beautiful. Ennoble bachelor butler, have you ever seen a Circassian belle? Fly at once to that wondrous clime, and you will learn that the secret of much of their beauty lies in the liberal use of SOZO-DONT, which was introduced there years ago to make their teeth beautiful.

"It is handy to have about the house," Toolies said. So is SPALDING'S GLEE.

Mothers! Mothers! Mothers! Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere. 25 cents a bottle.

For Weakness and General Debility.

North Saratoga, Me., Sept. 9, 1870.

DEAR SIR,—It gives me very great pleasure to inform you of the benefit received from the use of PERUVIAN SYRUP in my own family. My wife, for the past ten years, has been in feeble health—very much debilitated generally. Last spring she concluded to try a bottle of PERUVIAN SYRUP, and was so well pleased with the result that she continued its use until three or four bottles had been used, and she is now in better health than at any time for ten years, and has increased in weight from 110 pounds to 135 lbs. I have employed physicians, and used a great variety of patent medicines, to the extent of hundreds of dollars, and I know she received more benefit from the PERUVIAN SYRUP than all the rest together.

My sales on the Syrup are very large and constantly increasing, and I do not hesitate to recommend and even warrant it to give satisfaction. If you desire, you are at liberty to use this communication as you see fit, as it gives me pleasure to recommend so good an article to suffering humanity. Yours truly,
